OLD TIMES, OLD FRIENDS, OLD LOVE.

There are no days like the good old days-The days when we were youthful;
When humankind were pure of mind
And speech and deeds were truthful;
Before a love for sordid gold
Recommends weeks

Became man's ruling passion

And before each dame and maid became Slaves to the tyrant fashion. There are no girls like the good old girls-Against the world I'd stake 'em— As buxom and smart and clean of heart As the Lord knew how to make 'em.

They were rich in spirit and common sense, A piety all supportin; They could bake and brew and had taught school, too, and they made the likeliest courtin. There are no boys like the good old boy

When we were boys together, When the grass was sweet to the brown bare feet That dimpled the laughing heather, That dimpted the laughing beather,
When the pewee sung to the summer dawn
Of the bee in the billowy clover,
Or down by the mill the whippoorwill
Echeed his night song over,

There is no love like the good old love— The love that mother gave us. We are old, old men, yet we pine again For that precious grace—God save us. So we dream and dream of the good old times, And our hearts grow tenderer, fonder,

Of heaven away off yonder. WELLINGTON'S DECISION.

As those dear old dreams bring soothing gleams

When the Moment to Strike Had Come, He Did Not Besitate. Badajos lies in Spain five miles from the Portuguese frontier. It was the key of a situation. Wellington's chance was to strike at Badajos before the French marshals could combine and crush him. His task was both in front of him and behind him. He lacked !ransport; he lacked food for the men; he soldiers were enting cassava root instead of bread; the bullocks were weak and emaciated. All this was the loing of the parliament at home. But Wellington knew that the monent to strike had come, and he seems to have hesitated very little. Placing so faith in the tongues of the Portuguese, he made his plans with all possible secrecy. The guns for the siege were loaded on board the transport at Lisbon and consigned to a fictitious adiress. But in the river Sadhao they were placed upon smaller vessels, and dually they were again landed and drawn by builocks to Eloas, a post in the possession of the allies. Having stationed two-thirds of his force under General Graham and General Hill to prevent a most probable interference oy Soult and Marmont, Wellington advanced, reaching Eloas on the 11th of March, 1812. He had made the most incredible exertions. The stupidity of the Portuguese had vied with the stupidity of the government at home. Wellington had been carrying the preparation for the campaiga upon his own shoulders. If he was to win Badajos, he was to win it with no help save that from gallant and trustworthy subordinates. He was ill withal. Even his strangely steellike nature had bent beneath the trouble of preparation amid such indifference. But on March 16 Beresford, with three divisions, crossed the Guardiana on pontoons and flying bridges, drove

By some fatality Olinghouse canyon fails to receive the attention it merits If You Don't See What You Want from the outside world. At an early stage in the history of the camp mining men visited it. There had been nothing but superficial work done and the gulch was given a bad name as a permanent district.

Since that time work has steadily progressed. Shafts have been sunk and drifts run into the sides of the canyon. The claim owners have in nearly every case been well rewarded Silk waists and kid gloves are now for their efforts. Although practically on display at the Novelty Dry Goods all the mine owners were down to bedrock, financially speaking, when they struck the gulch, they have purchased supplies and hired men with the money they dag out of the ground.

It is a poor man's camp, if any such were ever found.

Several days ago a member of the Journal's reportorial staff visited Olinghouse and noted the progress tolls, the former having also the charge for guaranteed work, at Ed.
